ELEVATING CRAFT

ELEVATING CRAFT

We find its origin in the Japanese tradition: Tokonoma.
A simple, sacred space where a single object is presented.
Not as decoration, but as a tribute to craftsmanship.

Not to make it more beautiful,
but as a ritual of curation,
attention, and presence.

ICE

TOKONO ICE

The Tokono ice bath embodies pure elegance and functionality in one sculptural object, designed by architect Nicolas Duchateau. The exterior is clad in brushed stainless steel. Integrated entry steps provide comfort without compromising aesthetics.

This bath is designed for those who take performance seriously, but refuse to sacrifice beauty. Ideal for use in wellness spaces, high-end interiors, or outdoor settings where design is just as important as recovery.
